Postlude: Go Out In The World

By Elaine Rendler-McQueeney, from Today's Liturgy 2011

From now through the Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time the Gospels proclaim the Sermon on the Mount. With apologies to Eugene Peterson, I would like to paraphrase from his work, The Message. He offers a contemporary spin on the Beatitudes to spark our imaginations.

1) The poor in spirit = those at the end of their ropes: "With less of you there is more of God." 2) Those who mourn = those who feel they've lost everything: "Only then can you be embraced by the One most dear to you." 3) The meek = those content with who they are: "you are proud owners of everything that can't be bought." 4) Those who hunger and thirst = those who've worked up an appetite for God: "He's food and drink in the best meal you'll ever eat." 5) The merciful = those who care: "At the moment of being 'care-full,' you find yourselves 'cared for'." 6) The pure of heart = those who are working to get mind and heart put right: "Then you can see God in the outside world." 7) The peacemakers = those who show people how to cooperate and not fight: "That's when you discover who you really are, and your place in God's family." 8) The persecuted = those who suffer because of their commitment to God: "It means that the truth is too close for comfort and they are uncomfortable with you.... My prophets and witnesses have always gotten into this kind of trouble."
